

Ośrodek Badań nad Migracjami
Instytut Studiów Społecznych UW
Stawki 5/7
00-183 Warszawa
Tel.: 48+22+8315153
Fax: 48+22+8314933
www.iss.uw.edu.pl
issinfo@samba.iss.uw.edu.pl

Seria: PRACE MIGRACYJNE, nr 50

Influx and Integration of Migrants in Poland in the Early XXI Century

Aleksandra Grzymała-Kazłowska
Marek Okólski

Contents

1. Introduction 3

2. Prominent Categories of Migrants and their Structural Characteristics 5

 2.1. Categories and Respective Definitions 5

 2.2. Immigrant Stock and Inflow of Migrants in 2000 by Country of Origin 7

 2.3. Demographic Profile and Human Capital of Migrants 13

 2.4. Mixed Marriages of Documented Migrants 14

 2.5. Economic Activity of Migrants 15

3. Reasons for the Inflow to Poland 17

 3.1. Geopolitics and a Global Political Change 17

 3.2. Poland as a Migrant Attracting Center in the New “Migration Space” 18

 3.3. Push Forces in Home Countries 19

 3.4. Metamorphoses in the Process of Migration 21

4. The Level of Acceptance of Migrants in Poland 23

 4.1. Social Attitudes towards Migrants in Poland 23

 4.2. Immigrants and Public Discourse 29

 4.3. Polish Immigration Policy 31

 4.4. Government Programs and Services Available to Immigrants 35

 4.5. Non-governmental Initiatives Pertaining to Immigrants in Poland 38

5. Three Models of Migrant Adjustment to Life in Poland: 40

 5.1. The Ukrainians, Vietnamese and Westerners 40

 5.2. The Adjustment of Ukrainian Migrants to Polish Society 40

 5.3. The Adjustment of Vietnamese Migrants to the Polish Society 43

 5.4. The Adjustment of Western Migrants to Polish Society 45

6. Implications of the Presence of Immigrant Populations for Polish Society 47

7. Concluding Remarks 47

References 50

07.3291 K