

Contents

Foreword

T. J. Anderson, v

You Have to Be Invited: Reflections on Music Making and Musician Creation in Black American Culture

Leonard L. Brown, 3

In His Own Words: Coltrane's Responses to Critics

Leonard L. Brown, 11

John Coltrane and the Practice of Freedom

Herman Gray, 33

John Coltrane as the Personification of Spirituality in Black Music

Anthony Brown, 55

Freedom Is a Constant Struggle: Alice Coltrane and the Redefining of the Jazz Avant-Garde

Tammy L. Kernodle, 73

When Bar Walkers Preach: John Coltrane and the Crisis of the Black Intellectual

Tommy L. Lott, 99

"Don't Let the Devil (Make You) Lose Your Joy": A
Look at Late Coltrane

Salim Washington, 123

The Spiritual Ethos in Black Music and Its
Quintessential Exemplar, John Coltrane
Emmett G. Price III, 153

Somebody Please Say, "Amen!"
Eric D. Jackson, 173

Masters on a Master Introduction: Anthony Brown's and Leonard L. Brown's Conversations with Olly Wilson, Yusef Lateef, and Billy Taylor
Conversation with Olly Wilson, 185
Conversation with Yusef Lateef, 192
Conversation with Billy Taylor, 205

Coda: George Russell on
John Coltrane, 219

Index, 221