
Contents

About the Authors	ix
Preface	x
A Note from Richard Jackson Harris	xiii
A Note from Fred W. Sanborn	xv
1 Mass Communication in Our Wired Society: The Changing Media Landscape	1
2 Research and Theory in Mass Communication: How Are Media Studied Scientifically?	26
3 The Psychology of Media Use: Tapping into Our Deepest Selves	51
4 Media Portrayals of Groups: Distorted Social Mirrors	73
5 Advertising: Baiting, Catching, and Reeling Us In	122
6 Sports, Music, and Religion: Emotion to the Forefront	166
7 News: Setting an Agenda about the World	207
8 Politics: Using News and Advertising to Win Elections	252
9 Violence: Watching All That Mayhem Really Matters	288
10 Sex: Is Tuning In Turning Us On? Sexuality through a Media Lens	326

11	Socially Positive Media: Teaching Good Things to Children (and the Rest of Us)	363
12	Responding to Media: Getting Our Two Cents In	398
	References	419
	Author Index	502
	Subject Index	527