

Contents

Introduction	1
Part I. Climate Change, Crisis and the Future of Democracy: Setting the Stage
1. Ecological Crisis and Climate Change: From States of Emergency to "Fortress World"?	21
2. Democracy at Risk: From Citizen Activism to Techno-Environmentalism	44
3. Technocratic Strategy as Central Steering: From Sustainable Development to Transition Management	67
Part II. Democratic Prospects in the Face of Climate Crisis
4. Environmental Democracy and Ecological Citizenship: From Theoretical Ideals to Practical Alternatives?	89
5. The Green State as Environmental Democracy? Political Power, Globalization, and Post-Democracy	112
Part III. Environmental Democracy as Participatory Governance
6. Participatory Environmental Governance: Civil Society, Citizen Engagement, and Participatory Policy Expertise	137
7. The Community Forest Movement in Nepal as Participatory Governance: Civil Society, Deliberative Politics, and Participatory Expertise	160
8. Practicing Participatory Environmental Governance: Ecovillages and the Global Ecovillage Movement	185

Part IV. Making Theory Matter: From Resilience to Eco-Localism and Participatory Governance

9. Urban Sustainability, Eco-Cities, and Transition Towns: Resilience Planning as Apolitical Politics	207
10. Relocalization for Sustainable Communities: Participatory Ecological Practices and Theoretical Foundations	224
11. Sustaining Democracy in Hard Times: Participatory Theory for Local Environmental Governance	251
Conclusion	276
References	287
Index	317