

Contents

Acknowledgements . . . . .	7
Eva Youkhana
Introduction . . . . .	9
I. Approaching mobility, migration and borders
María José Guerra Palmero
Migrations, gender and transnational citizenship – Global economy and women's mobility at stake . . . . .	21
Yvonne Riaño
Conceptualising space in transnational migration studies. A critical perspective . . . . .	35
Maria Schwertl
Turning to the satellite, the container, the smartphone, technologization or situations of bordering and border crossing? Differences in using new materialistic approaches for ethnographic studies on migration and border regimes . . . . .	49
Juan Carlos Velasco
Borders, migrations, and fortune . . . . .	71
II. Contesting, negotiating, and mobilising
Yaatsil Guevara González
Negociando fronteras: Tácticas de migrantes indocumentados en la frontera México-Guatemala . . . . .	85

Gioconda Herrera / Lucia Pérez Martínez
Times of crisis and times to return? Migratory, occupational and social trajectories of returning migrants in Ecuador . . . . .	99
Lara Jüssen
Animating citizenship through migrant labor struggles. Latin American household workers and creative protest in Madrid . . . . .	117
III. Constructing identities and belonging across borders
Eva Youkhana
Migrants' religious spaces and the power of Christian Saints – the Latin American Virgin of Cisne in Spain . . . . .	139
Rodrigo Fidel Rodríguez Borges
Denotar, connotar, criminalizar la inmigración. Cómo los medios de comunicación hacen cosas con palabras . . . . .	157
Marisa Ruiz Trejo
A feminist anthropology approach to the “Transnational Radio Field”. The case of Latino Radio in Madrid . . . . .	171
Biographic notes . . . . .	195