

Contents

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xix

Introduction	1
---------------------	----------

PART I: Concepts: The Need for a Modest but Persistent Analyticity 11

1	Defining the Terms of Surveillance Studies	13
2	So What's New? Classifying Means for Change and Continuity	40
3	So What's Old? Classifying Goals for Continuity and Change	60
4	The Stuff of Surveillance: Varieties of Personal Information	86

PART II: Social Processes 113

5	Social Processes in Surveillance	115
6	A Tack in the Shoe and Taking the Shoe Off: Resistance and Counters to Resistance	140

PART III: Culture and Contexts 173

7	Work: The Omniscient Organization Measures Everything That Moves	179
8	Children: Slap That Baby's Bottom, Embed That ID Chip, and Let It Begin	200
9	The Private within the Public: Psychological Report on Tom I. Voire	217
10	A Mood Apart: What's Wrong with Tom?	230
11	Government and More: A Speech by the Hon. Rocky Bottoms to the Society for the Advancement of Professional Surveillance	242

PART IV: Ethics and Policy 265

12	Techno-Fallacies of the Information Age	267
13	An Ethics for the New (and Old) Surveillance	276
14	Windows into Hearts and Souls: Clear, Tinted, or Opaque Today?	290

Appendix: A Note on Values: Neither Technophobe nor Technophile 323

Notes 327

References 359

Index 389

Material Available Online at press.uchicago.edu/sites/marx/

Chapter 8 Children: Additional Material

Chapter 9 Voire Early Experience: Additional Material

Chapter 10 Voire Analysis: Additional Material

Chapter 12 Techno-Fallacies of the Information Age: Additional Material

Chapter 13 Ethics Questions: Additional Material

Additional Culture Chapters:

A Soul Train: Surveillance in Popular Music

B The New Surveillance in Visual Imagery

Additional appendix B “Your Papers Please”: Personal and Professional Encounters with Surveillance