

Contents

Preface: Why Write about the World Social Forum	vii
Immanuel Wallerstein
Introduction	1
Marina Karides and Judith Blau

PART I

SOCIAL FORUM PROCESS: THE USSF AND ITS RELATION TO THE WSF

1. In Defense of World Social Forum VII	7
Marina Karides and Thomas Ponniah
2. The US Social Forum: Building from the Bottom Up	21
Michael Leon Guerrero
3. New Politics Emerging at the US Social Forum	41
Jackie Smith, Rachel V. Kutz-Flamenbaum, Christopher Hausmann
4. Another United States Is Happening: Building Today's Movement from the Bottom Up. The United States Social Forum and Beyond	57
Walda Katz-Fishman and Jerome W. Scott
5. A Different (Kind of) Politics Is Possible: Conflict and Problem(s) at the USSF	71
Michal Osterweil

PART II

DEBATES AND SOCIAL THOUGHT: HIGHLIGHTING THE WORLD SOCIAL FORUM

6. Reading Nairobi: Place, Space, and Difference at the 2007 World Social Forum	93
Janet Conway

7. Is the World Social Forum the Privileged Space for Reinventing Labor as a Global Social Movement? 117
Peter Waterman

8. Is the World Social Forum a Democratic Global Civil Society? 131
Stellan Vinthagen

9. Social Forums – Challenges and New Perspectives 149
Chico Whitaker

PART III

BRIDGING ACTIVISM AND ACADEMICS

10. Reformist Reforms, Non-Reformist Reforms and Global Justice: Activist, NGO and Intellectual Challenges in the World Social Forum 157
Patrick Bond

11. Feminists and the Forum: Is It Worth the Effort? 173
Lyndi Hewitt

12. Sociology, Human Rights, and the World Social Forum 191
Mark Frezzo

13. Another Structure of Knowledge Is Possible: The Social
Forum Process and Academia 205
Steven Sherman

14. World Social Forum: Re-imaging Development and the Global South beyond the Neo-colonial Gaze 223
Eunice N. Sable

Notes on Contributors 239

Index 245