

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
PREFACE	7
I. INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS IN THE PACIFIC	13
I. Is the Pacific the New Storm-Centre?	13
II. China—Manchuria—Japan	22
III. The Major Issue	30
II. THE JAPANESE BACKGROUND	33
I. Geographical	33
II. Historical	35
III. Cultural	40
III. PRESSURE OF NUMBERS IN JAPAN	50
I. Is there a Population Problem in Japan?	50
II. The Quantitative Tests	55
III. Diminishing Returns	64
IV. THE FUTURE POPULATION	70
I. On the Movement of Population in General	70
II. The Rate of Growth in Japan	80
V. ON GROWING THEIR OWN FOOD	93
I. Distress among the Peasantry	93
II. The Capacity of Japan to Produce her own Food	111
III. Changing the Diet	125
IV. The Deductions	129
VI. THE WAY OF INDUSTRIALIZATION	133
I. Foreign Trade: the Changing Ratio between World Production and World Commerce	133
II. Metals and Energy Resources: The Determinants of Competitive Status in Foreign Trade	142
III. Industrialization in Japan To-day	157
IV. Japanese Foreign Trade To-day	170
V. The Inferences	180

12	THE JAPANESE POPULATION PROBLEM
CHAPTER		PAGE
VII.	RELIEF THROUGH EMIGRATION	188
I.	Can Emigration Relieve the Pressure?	188
II.	Does Japanese Policy Envisage an Emigration Programme?	198
VIII.	CONCLUSION	204
I.	The Heart of the Problem	204
II.	The Domestic Implications	208
III.	The International Implications	212
APPENDIX: I.	Japanese Statistics	219
II.	Rice Culture in Japan	221
BIBLIOGRAPHY		223
INDEX		236