

Contents

Introduction	page 1
1 What Is Moral Status and Why Does It Matter?	9
2 How Is Moral Status Determined?	27
Empathy	32
Universalizing Bases for Self-Worth	34
Awe and Disgust	37
Is One Basis for Attributing Moral Status Superior?	44
Deficiencies in Existing Approaches to Moral Status	53
3 Selecting Criteria of Moral Status	61
Life	63
Relationship	77
Contribution to a Community	77
Reciprocity	82
Sentience	86
Higher Cognitive Functioning	95
Being the Subject of a Life	98
Rational Moral Agency and Autonomy	107
Summation	118
Additional Criteria	118
Potentiality	119
Talents and Abilities	122
Beauty	124
Venality, Virtue, and Innocence	125
Species Membership?	129
Conclusion	130

4	Problems in Applying a Multicriteria Approach	131
	The Invidious Discrimination Objection	132
	The Complexity Objection	140
	Conclusion	143
5	Applying a Multicriteria Moral Status Test
	to Adults and Children	145
	Life	150
	Relationship	156
	Sentience	158
	Subject of a Life	163
	Higher Cognitive Functioning	163
	Other Criteria	179
	Conclusion	181
6	Legal, Policy, and Moral Implications
	of Children's Superiority	188
	General Implications	188
	Specific Implications	191
	Family Law	191
	Parentage	192
	Child Rearing	192
	Divorce	193
	Public Policy	194
	Social Life	196
	Conclusion	197
	Conclusion	199
	Bibliography	203
	Index	209