

Contents

List of figures	viii
Preface to the second edition	ix
Introduction: The concerns and distinctiveness of ethnography	1
1 Comparison: The ethnographic outlook	12
2 People in context	34
3 Relationships and meanings	56
4 Narrating the immediate	77
5 Ethnography as argument	97
6 Authors and authority	122
7 Taking a stance: Theories for a changing world	146
8 Informants, interlocutors, collaborators	168
Conclusion: Ethnography in the human conversation: a final remark	192
Glossary	204
Bibliography	212
Index	218