Contents

List of Figures vii
List of Tables viii
Acknowledgments ix

Introduction Cynthia Gordon and Alla Tovares 1

Part One Negotiating Individual Identities in Online Food Contexts

1 "Vegetables as a Chore": Constructing and Problematizing a "Picky Eater" Identity Online Didem İkizoğlu and Cynthia Gordon 13

2 The Multidimensionality of Eating in Contemporary Information Society: A Corpus-based Discourse Analysis of Online Audience Reactions to a TV Show About Food Jana Declercq, Stéphan Tulkens, and Geert Jacobs 33

3 Mediatizing the Fashionable Eater in @nytfood #tbt Posts Gwynne Mapes 59

Part Two (Re)constructing and (Re)imagining Existing Food-related Language, Practices, and Actions in Digital Environments

4 Constructing Veganism Against the Backdrop of Omnivore Cuisine: The Use of Adjectives and Modifiers in Vegan Food Blogs Cornelia Gerhardt 87

5 What if the Customer is Wrong?: Debates About Food on Yelp and TripAdvisor Camilla Vásquez 111

6 Mukbang as Your Digital Tablemate: Creating Commensality Online Hanwool Choe 137

Part Three Using Food as a Discursive and Material Resource for Online Activism and Political Engagement

7 Growing Online: Activist Identities in the "Grow Your Own" English Blogging Community Nadine Pierce, Isidoropaolo Casteltrione, and Ana Tominc 171

8 Food, Activism, and Chips Oman on Twitter Najma Al Zidjaly, Einas Al Moqbali, and Ahad Al Hinai 197

9 Parmesan and Patriotism on YouTube: Food as Ideology in Today's Russia Alla Tovares 225

Afterword: Food, Language, and Social Media: Past, Present, and Future Alla Tovares and Cynthia Gordon 251

Notes on Contributors 259
Index 263