

Contents

Acknowledgements

Introduction

|   |  |     |
|---|--|-----|
| 1 | A Lost Genealogy:Adult Education and the Project of British Cultural Studies | 9   |
| 2 | Class and Nation:Working-Class Identity and the 'English' Settlement         | 33  |
| 3 | English Studies: an Internal Colonisation  | 49  |
| 4 | National Popular: Class Culture or Mass Culture?                                 | 72  |
| 5 | Karl Mannheim:the Emigré Intellectual and the 'Sociological Turn'            | 98  |
| 6 | Between Cultures:Richard Hoggart and Popular Culture                         | 118 |
| 7 | Edward Thompson and the West Riding:Cold War and Cultural Struggle           | 144 |
| 8 | Raymond Williams and the Invention of Cultural Politics                          | 176 |
| 9 | Conclusion:Marginal Occupations, Adult Education and Social Renewal          | 200 |
|   | Bibliography   | 211 |
|   | Index  |     |