

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
Introduction	1
Steven Seidman and David G. Wagner
PART I TOWARD POSTMODERNISM: RECONFIGURING THEORY AND POLITICS
1 General Social Theory, Irony, Postmodernism	17
Charles Lemert
2 Postmodern Social Theory as Narrative with a Moral Intent	47
Steven Seidman
3 On the Postmodern Barricades: Feminism, Politics, and Theory	82
Linda Nicholson
4 The Strange Life and Hard Times of the Concept of General Theory in Sociology: A Short History of Hope	101
Stephen Turner
PART II CRITICS OF POSTMODERNISM: IN DEFENSE OF SCIENTIFIC THEORY
5 Defending Social Science against the Postmodern Doubt	137
Robert D'Amico

vi Contents

6	The Promise of Positivism Jonathan Turner	156
7	The Confusion of the Modes of Sociology Randall Collins	179
8	Daring Modesty: On Metatheory, Observation, and Theory Growth David G. Wagner	199
PART III BETWEEN MODERNISM AND POSTMODERNISM: TOWARD A CONTEXTUALIZING GENERAL THEORY
9	Social Science and Society as Discourse: Toward a Sociology for Civic Competence Richard Harvey Brown	223
10	Culture, History, and the Problem of Specificity in Social Theory Craig Calhoun	244
11	The Tensions of Critical Theory: Is Negative Dialectics All There Is? Stanley Aronowitz	289
12	General Theory in the Postpositivist Mode: The “Epistemological Dilemma” and the Search for Present Reason Jeffrey Alexander	322
	Name Index	369
	Subject Index	376